

Struan H. Coleman, MD, PhD

Associate Editor for Practice Management/Economics

Dr. Coleman is a board-certified orthopedic surgeon specializing in hip preservation and sports medicine at the Hospital for Special Surgery in New York and the Vincera Institute in Philadelphia, and currently is the Head Team Physician for the New York Mets. He earned a medical degree from Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons and holds a D.Phil in Microbiology from Oxford University in England. He completed his residency in Orthopedic Surgery and a fellowship in Sports Medicine at the Hospital for Special Surgery. Dr. Coleman focuses on the treatment of sports-related injuries of the hip, knee, and shoulder with a particular interest in hip arthroscopy and hip preservation. He has published multiple articles and book chapters, and holds numerous patents for technologies that are utilized by sports medicine physicians and surgeons.

Jack Farr II, MD

Associate Editor for Patellofemoral

Dr. Farr is a board-certified orthopedic surgeon and has a subspecialty practice in knee and cartilage restoration. He is affiliated with the OrthoIndy Hospital and Community Hospital South. He is also the Vice President of the Patellofemoral Foundation, is on the board for the International Cartilage Repair Society, holds a board position with the Cartilage Research Foundation, and holds a voluntary clinical full professorship in Orthopedic Surgery at the Indiana University Medical Center. Dr. Farr earned his medical degree from Indiana University, and completed his Orthopedic Surgery residency at Indiana University Medical Center. He was a design surgeon for a meniscal allograft transplant system and 2 knee patellofemoral osteotomy systems. He is also a member of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons (AAOS), the Arthroscopy Association of North America (AANA), and the European Society of Sports Traumatology, Knee Surgery and Arthroscopy (ESSKA).

Kenneth Montgomery, MD

Associate Editor for Professional Sports

Dr. Montgomery is an orthopedic surgeon who is fellowship-trained in sports medicine and hand and upper extremity surgery. He is currently practicing at Tri-County Orthopedics and Sports Medicine in Morristown, New Jersey. He is also the Head Team Physician and Medical Director for the New York Jets. He served as a team orthopedist with the New York Islanders from 1997-2009, and was formerly the section chief of Sports Medicine at ProHEALTH Care Associates in Lake Success, New York. Dr. Montgomery completed his residency in Orthopedic Surgery at the Hospital for Special Surgery, and completed a Sports Medicine fellowship at Lenox Hill Hospital. He also completed a Hand and Upper Extremity fellowship at Harvard. He is one of the founders for OrthoNations, a nonprofit organization that helps educate orthopedic surgeons in developing countries. He is also one of the founding surgeons for Cayenne Medical, a medical device company specializing in sports medicine implants.